

1600 Beanies Arrive On Campus

Freshmen Rush To Lectures, Meetings, And A Barbecue During Hectic Week of Orientation

1,600 beanies are a lot of beanies and every one of them should be seen on campus in the next few weeks if all the new campus members are adhering to the regulations. The orientation program appears to have been very successful, but only the rest of this school year can dictate if this is really the case. Upperclassmen have worked enthusiastically to insure that everyone arriving on the campus for the first time last Thursday felt right at home and became familiar with the campus community.

Freshmen were kept busy rushing to lectures, meetings, parties, shows, barbecues and standing in various lines. This schedule brought forth many comments:

An irate freshman boy from Warwick announced that he couldn't wait for classes to begin so that he could get some rest.

An obviously weary New Jersey lass wearing her freshman beanie like an umpire's cap exclaimed "I'm not one who likes to just sit around, but this is ridiculous."

"I can't wait to go home just so I can take my beanie off and not feel guilty about it," commented a Westerly girl.

"The poor Alma Mater has been sung to every tune from I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy to the Gillette shaving song and its been rumored among the freshmen that Ben Butler is a senior with a house down the line", said a Blue Key member.

When asked if URI was living up to their expectations most freshmen said they would refuse to comment until they had sampled the academic life here, but they appeared cheerful despite the rugged orientation schedule and many said that they are looking forward to the Brown-URI game on Saturday.

New Provost to Speak Thurs.

The new Vice President for Academic Affairs, Dr. F. Don James, will be the main speaker at the first All University convocation tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Keaney Gymnasium.

President Horn will preside over the convocation program that will follow a procession of all the faculty members. Dr. Robert P. Sorlien, associate professor of English, will be the faculty marshal.

Dr. James succeeds Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, who resigned to become the president of the University of Idaho. The new vice president assumed the post August 15th. Dr. James had previously been acting dean of the College of Arts and Science at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Dr. Francis H. Horn, in announcing the appointment, said "Dr. James is a highly competent scholar and administrator and we are fortunate to have secured him for this position. All were favorably impressed and there is no question that Dr. James will be a valuable and effective successor to Dr. Hartung."

"In this period of unparalleled expansion of URI, Dr. James

New Traffic Regulations To Be Strictly Enforced

Paul Olean, Chairman of the Student Traffic Appeals Committee, told Beacon reporters Monday night that due to the increase of automobiles on the URI campus and the continual infraction of traffic laws, stricter enforcement of these traffic laws is necessary for personal protection.

Mr. Olean said that the major change in the traffic laws this year is that violations of moving vehicles such as speeding, and failure to stop at intersections will be handled separately from parking violations.

The All-University Convocation on Thursday, Sept. 23, at 1:00 p.m. will be held in Keaney Gymnasium. ALL students are required to attend. Since there will be a faculty Procession, students are required to dress appropriately (coats and ties). Please remember, attendance is required of all students.

ATTENDANCE WILL BE TAKEN

FROM SLIPS DISTRIBUTED

In case of rain the Procession may be cancelled, but Convocation will convene.

Edward C. McGuire
Dean of Students

Tickets for moving vehicles violating traffic laws will be colored red. The first red ticket received by the offender carries a fine of $5.00. The second red ticket carries a fine of $10.00 and a 90 day permit suspension.

Tickets for parking violations will be blue in color. The first of these tickets received bears a $2.00 fine. A fine of $5.00 will be charged for each subsequent blue ticket.

White tickets will be issued to those parking without U.R.I. permits.

Mr. Olean stressed that students receiving white tickets must report to the police station or a blue ticket will be issued to the traffic violator.

An additional change in regulations will be with payment of fines, which will no longer be paid at the Bursar's, but at the U.R.I. Traffic Control office, which is located in the police station. This will be open Monday-through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"Students who feel that they're unjustly tagged may appeal to the Student Traffic Appeals Committee," explained Mr. Olean. He urged that all those students operating vehicles on campus to obtain pamphlets containing the new regulations at the police station.

will bring to its highest councils a spirit of youthful enthusiasm and vigor coupled with a sensitive appreciation of the objectives of publicly-supported higher education. After exploring possibilities across the nation, we are well satisfied that we have a truly outstanding man to assume the second highest academic position at the University of Rhode Island."

Born in Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 14, 1927, the new vice president attended the public schools of Oklahoma City, received the

100 Students Volunteer For Operation Headstart

Over one hundred students volunteered their participation Monday at registration in a plan to help local preschool children from poor and broken homes receive individual attention and a "good time" on the URI campus on Saturdays during the semester.

Sponsored by a coordinating committee of the Student Senate, "Project Headstart" is a followup plan for the national Operation Headstart program which was put into effect in the Kingston area (the South Kingstown-Narragansett project) this past summer. URI's Project Headstart will use the 95 children who participated in the local summer program (and are now in the first grade) in an effort to continue the work done with these children during the summer.

The youngsters will be brought to campus by volunteer drivers from the Kingston community on Saturdays. Student volunteers will then take them around campus to such places as the dairy barn or the green-houses, let them dabble in paint in the art rooms, explore a kitchen in the Home Economics department, or just sit on a floor (with cookies and milk of course!) and read them stories.

Lorrie Gottlieb, a sophomore who participated in the summer program as an assistant teacher and is presently a member of the URI coordinating committee, said Monday that the success of Project Headstart will depend on the quality and the quantity of the student volunteers who will be working with these children.

Dr. and Mrs. Smart of the URI Department of Child Development and Family Relations are national consultants for Operation Headstart and were instrumental in putting both the summer and the fall follow-up programs into operation. Dr. Smart was in the Rose Garden at the White House when President Johnson announced in early September that Operation Head-

Trident To Cruise North Atlantic

The university research ship "Trident" will leave Narragansett Bay on Oct. 8 for a 74 day cruise in the North Atlantic. Dr. John A. Knauss, dean of the URI graduate school of oceanography announced today.

Dr. Dale C. Krause, assistant research professor of oceanography, will head the scientific party which will experiment with micro-plankton, tiny plants and animals. Experiments made last year by Rober Fournier, a Ph.D. candidate, indicate that there was twice as much plankton in deep waters of the Atlantic than had been suspected.

Researchers would like to set up 10 geochemical stations of 12 hours each, 200 miles apart near the Azores. Instruments will be sent to great depths for samples of silica, trace metals and sediments.

This experiment may uncover more knowledge concerning the evolution and make up of sea water.

From Oct. 24-31 experiments will be conducted from Horta to Ponta Del Gada. Echo sounding, rock dredging and sediment coring will be objects of research there.

Before the return to Narragansett Bay on Dec. 20, researchers hope to set up 9 geochemical and 9 biological stations of 12 hours each, 10 geochemical and 1 biological stations of ten hours each between Portugal and Casablanca between Nov. 3-23.

During the 24 day return period, 10 geochemical stations of 10 hours each, 240 miles apart, will be made along with 6 days of geological studies.

Fraternities Organize Business Corporation

A new system has been initiated at URI to manage the business activities of 15 fraternities with a full-time fraternity manager to administer the program.

Established under the auspices of the Fraternity Managers Association, (a new Corporation organized by students, faculty and alumni), the system may save each fraternity from 10 to 20 percent on its annual gross expenses.

Dr. John F. Quinn, Vice President for Student Affairs, commented on the Association: "We have been seeking such an organization for quite some time, and feel it will solve many of the business problems inherent to fraternities at the University. We will do all in our power to cooperate to the fullest with the Association in order to insure the success of its goals."

The Association will purchase food, supplies, and fuel on a cooperative basis with one centralized office, thus eliminating the need for individual fraternities to deal with a number of vendors. All Houses will therefore benefit from the buying power of the group.

Similar organizations have proved quite successful at the Universities of Connecticut and Massachusetts, as well as at Ohio State, Penn State, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Texas A&M, Oregon, Bowdoin and Miami.

At the University of Connecticut, some 32 fraternities, sororities and independent dormitories were represented by the association formed there. On a cooperative buying basis, quite similar to the new program at URI, average savings of at least 15 percent on gross purchases for each unit were assessed for each year of operation.

The URI Association is administered by a nine-member, student majority Board of Control consisting of five students, two University faculty members elected from the Faculty Committee on Fraternity Affairs, and two Alumni Members elected from the Interfraternity Alumni Council of the University. It is a non-profit corporation formed independently of the University but has the University's official sanction.

Simply mail this coupon, along with your first quarterly payment, and we'll send you your membership card and your Blue Cross and Physicians Service contracts. Your benefits will begin on the first of next month. It's as simple as that to join this low-cost student program.

Seniors Offered Law Examinations

Educational Testing Service advises candidates to make separate applications to each law school of their choice, and ascertain from each whether the Law School Admission Test is required. Since many law schools select their freshmen classes in the spring preceding fall entrance, candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised to take either the November or the February test.

The morning session of the Law School Admission Test measures the ability to use language and to think logically. The afternoon session includes measures of writing ability and general background. A Bulletin of Information including sample questions and registration information, and a registration form should be obtained six weeks in advance of a testing date from Law School Admission Test, Box 944, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Registration forms and fees must reach ETS two weeks before the desired test administration date.

Registration forms may be obtained locally from Dr. Robert C. Spencer, Political Science Department, Washburn Hall; Dr. William D. Metz, Department of History, Washburn Hall; Professor David G. Geffner, Department of Accounting and Law, Independence Hall.

The Law School Admission Test, required of candidates for admission to most American Law Schools, will be given at more than 200 centers throughout the nation on November 13, 1965, February 12, 1966, and August 6, 1966. The test, which is administered by the Educational Testing Service, was taken last year by nearly 40,000 candidates whose scores were sent to over 125 law schools.

URI Receives Nat'l Grant

The University of Rhode Island with a 1965 "institutional" grant of $52,570 ranked among the top 16 percent of the institutions receiving these awards from the National Science Foundation, it was reported yesterday.

Dr. Peter F. Merenda, U.R.I.'s new coordinator of research, announced that URI stood 59th among 376 recipient colleges and universities across the country and first among New England's state universities. Among the top 50 were six branches of the University of California.

The "institutional grants," which are figured on a percentage basis of all NSF grants made to the institution over a 12 month period, are used to strengthen science programs.

This year's U.R.I. award represents an increase of $21,732 over the amount received last year when $30,838 was utilized to obtain an electron microscope and to provide grants-in-aid to faculty, including summer fellowships. Under terms of NSF awards, the recipients are free to use the funds for the direct costs of any scientific activities they choose.

Grants nationally ranged in amount from $600 to $1,46,624 and totalled $11,417,659. They were made to higher educational institutions in all 50 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

A Beacon photographer finds this student eager (?) to get to the books.

Educators Assemble

Dr. John A. Knauss has announced that 11 prominent scientists and educators will discuss whether universities specializing in the study of the oceans might be developed along similar lines to the land-grant colleges.

The national conference on the "Concept of a Sea-Grant University" will be held at the Hotel Viking in Newport on Oct. 28 and 29.

On Thursday, Oct. 28, U.S. Senator Claiborne Pell will speak at the conference along with Dr. Harve J. Carlson, director of the division of biological and medical sciences of the National Science Foundation and a member of the Interagency Committee on Oceanography. The first day's program will also include other prominent speakers.

On Friday morning, Oct. 29 Dr. H. C. Knoblauch, associate administrator of the Cooperative

State Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will outline what the land-grant program has accomplished in terms of the economy of this country and what lessons might be learned from the history and experience of this program.

"By mutual agreement between the University of Rhode Island and Brown University, students of either of the two institutions visiting the campus of the other from today until game time under any circumstances will immediately become liable for suspension. This agreement is arranged annually between the two universities in an effort to avoid untoward incidents."

Words of Wisdom!

The BEACON staff is probably the last (but certainly not the least!) of the campus well-wishers to extend a hearty welcome to the class of 1969. After one and one-half days of classes we would LIKE to think, anyway, that you are fairly well oriented to the campus, and that you're on your way to a successful first semester at URI.

It has taken a mighty effort, but we have resisted the urge to deluge you with "words of wisdom from wise upperclassmen". We only wish to convey to you our concern that you do not bury yourselves in your textbooks and neglect participation in organizations and University activities, or vice versa.

Keep smiling and don't lose those beanies!

Project Headstart

"Project Headstart" is specifically designed for the student, no matter what his academic area of interest, who would like to spend his Saturdays with a child of pre-school or first grade age who has not had the material benefits and individual attention that most of his classmates will have had.

It is hard for many people to realize today that there are children who have never held a book or a flower or a pet, who have never used modern plumbing, who have never heard a story read aloud. Nearly one million of these children will come of school age this year.

As one member of the coordinating committee has already said "the whole program depends on the quality and the quantity of its volunteers." The quality of the volunteers will depend on their sincere desire to spend some time on campus with these children. A large number of volunteers are needed in order that each child may receive as much individual attention as possible.

It will be extremely difficult for anyone to deny that these student volunteers will also receive a "headstart" in the campus learning process, for this experience will never be duplicated in the classroom.

Positions Announced

Appointments to the University Faculty Staff have been announced:

Dr. Robert L. Blecko, research assistant at Pennsylvania State University, was named assistant professor of mathematics. He has the B.S. from Kutztown, Pa., State College, and the M.A. and Ph. D. from Penn State University, where he had also been graduate assistant and instructor in mathematics.

Richard D. Gonzales, who has been a graduate assistant at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and Johns Hopkins University, was named assistant professor of chemistry. He has the B. Ch. E. from Rensselaer and the M.A. from Johns Hopkins, where he is a candidate for the Ph. D.

Robert B. Kelley, former teaching assistant in engineering at the University of California, Los Angeles, was named assistant professor of electrical engineering. He has the B. S. from the Newark, N.J., College of Engineering, and the M. S. from UCLA, where he is also candidate for the Ph. D.

Harold Mark, instructor in sociology at Ohio State University and a graduate of the State University of Iowa with the B.A. and M.A. degrees, was named assistant professor of sociology.

Dr. Alfred C. Pascale, director of special services of the Warwick school department and part-time visiting professor at Rhode Island College, was named assistant professor of education. He has the B.S. from Boston University, the M.A. from Columbia and the Ed. D. from B. U.

Dr. John T. Tashiro, former research assistant at Oregon State University, was named assistant professor of chemistry. He has the A.A. from City College of San Francisco, the B.A. from the University of California and the Ph. D. from Oregon State University.

Dr. William T. Vosburgh, for the last two years psychologist of the Jordan Elbridge Central Schools, New York, was named assistant clinical professor of psychology. He is a graduate of the University of Maine with the B.A., and has the M.A. and Ph. D. from Syracuse University.

Miss Anita L. Cicotte, former instructor in dance in Wilmington, Del., and Newark, Del., was named instructor in physical education for women. She has the B.A. from the University of Delaware, and is a candidate for the M.F.A. from the University of North Carolina.

Miss Gertrude A. Dunn, a graduate of West Chester, Pa., State College, and who has taught physical education in several high schools, was named instructor in physical education for women for the Fall semester.

POLICY STATEMENT

All Letters to the Editor, classified advertisements, and material for the "announcement" section must be in the BEACON office in the Memorial Union or in the BEACON mailbox in the student organization room no later than 6 p. m. each Sunday evening. The BEACON reserves the right to edit Letters to the Editor for space considerations when it is deemed necessary.

A break during the hectic freshmen week schedule finds these students relaxing outside the Memorial Union.

by Michael Zamperini

Welcome back to Glorious-type Campus. Once again we all congregate for a fun-filled year of festivities, rallies, games, raids, parties, smokers, rush, Unionizing, socializing, dating, and, for a few people, academic endeavors. Ah yes, once again the Disneyland of the East throws open its golden gates to reveal that citadel of knowledge that it so very well conceals.

And so, another New Student Week hits the dust, or in the case of typical URI weather, the mud. What fun to witness the long awaited arrival of the Class of the "Magic Number". Like everyone else, they arrived with parents, dressed to impress (who)?, and eagerly unloaded their tons of equipment that mama thought would be necessary to carry them through the year. Breathlessly they absorbed the words of wisdom from upperclassmen such as "Check out the blond in the tight blue dress." And, as a parting gift, they were all treated to the last-minute advice of the parents: "Be sure to write once a week, eat three meals a day, don't go out because you're here to study and they'll be plenty of time for dating after you graduate, and should anything go wrong, be sure to call us... we only live five miles away."

Actually, there has hardly been a decent chance for the average freshman to become lost for this first week, what with Student Guides, Blue Keys, Sachems, fraternity men and the substitute big sisters and mother hens—Junior Counselors. Seriously though, the JC's are having a wonderful time. While escorting their "girls" around campus, they know that the disgusting whistles and cat calls are not for them. They can thus feel so much older, so much more mature... so unwanted.

By now everyone should be completely oriented. Everyone connected with the University in any way has taken time to wish the beanie-boppers "good luck", "maintain", "best wishes", "sincerest regrets", et. al. to make them feel more "in" with the crowd. So many vast horizons have been opened to the freshmen. Once again they can greet all the students that went to high school with as well as attempting to make new acquaintances. (Just remember that "the out-standing tradition of URI is that of friendliness.") So, mark an end to countless lectures resulting not only in an enrichment of general information but also a compounding of fanny fatigue.

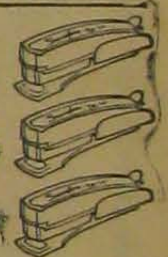

ETC. DEPT. Happiness is being in a triple. If you're lucky, you might have a bunk bed, if not, then there are three beds on the floor, sort of like wall-to-wall mattresses or a deck system in the dorms... An important sidenote is that movies will be shown in Edwards this year instead of the Union Ballroom as previously announced... And, if all else fails, just remember URI's motto: "HOPE—what else can you do?"

Sounding Board will meet briefly in the Student Senate Office Room 303, Memorial Union) on Wednesday Sept. 29 at 6:30 p. m.

ETS Releases Test Dates

Seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of four different test dates announced by Educational Testing Service.

Information about the examinations, as well as a registration form, may be obtained from the Placement Office in Davis Hall, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey (08540).

The testing dates are: December 11, 1965, and March 19, July 16, and October 8, 1966. The tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, ETS said.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Lists of school systems which use the examination results are distributed to colleges by ETS, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers the examinations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure the professional and general preparation of teachers, and one of 13 Teaching Area Examinations (formerly called Optional Examinations) which measure mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

'Mild' Is Their Reaction

At this moment 1,730 students are living in triple rooms at the University. "Student reactions to this situation have been quite mild; they seem to understand that this situation is only temporary and seem to be taking it in their stride," said William F. Joiner, Director of Housing.

The complex is divided into three stages, and the first one will be completed by the end of November. Three buildings will be ready at this time. Building C will be the first to be occupied. Those sororities now housed in Barlow will move to this new location in an estimated seven weeks. Building B will be ready shortly after C and will house Phi Kappa Theta fraternity as well as other undergraduate students. Last to be completed will be Building A, which will be occupied by undergraduate women students.

Mr. Joiner is optimistic about the progress of the buildings and he feels assured that the students moving into them will find that they were well worth waiting for. Custom designed furniture and wall-to-wall carpeting provide for a pleasant atmosphere, besides having a phone in each bedroom.

"In buildings B and C the view of the athletic field is unparalleled," commented Mr. Joiner. Each building will consist of seven suites, one of which will be on the ground floor.

"The second stage of the complex should be completed in September of 1966 and the third and final stage will be completed in September of the following year," said the Housing Director.

50 Honor Students Register In Colloquium Program

Twenty-nine speakers will discuss various aspects of "Change in the Contemporary Environment: The New Deal to the Great Society" during the 1965-1966 URI Honors Colloquium.

Dr. Bernard Schurman, professor of economics and coordinator for the honors program, said a four-part series of lectures had been scheduled for the nearly 50 students who qualify for the colloquium, a special, six-credit, two semester offering that also requires extensive outside reading and "honors" papers.

Speakers, ranging from a university president to a labor union official, have been given specific topics to cover for discussion: "The Economics and Technology of Change," "The Politics of Change," "Changes in the Social Setting," and "The Great Society: Rhetoric and Reality." Other speakers include a newspaperman, college professors, government officials, scientists, and writers.

In addition, two URI educators will give back-to-back lectures which will have as their theme, "The New Investment in Human Beings." On October 29, Dr. Francis H. Horn, will discuss "Higher Education in a Changing Society," while on November 3 Dr. Elton Rayack, associate professor of economics and a noted student of medical-health finances, will discuss "The Production and Distribution of American Medical Care."

To qualify for the program URI students must be juniors with a 3.2 average or seniors with a 3.0 average.

Capable of speeds better than 2,000 mph, the YF-12A is the hottest aircraft around.

Now Maj. Walter F. Daniel, test pilot for the YF-12A, answers your questions about the world's fastest manned airplane and America's Aerospace Team.

(Maj. Daniel, a test pilot since 1954, is a member of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots. He received a B.S. degree in Aeronautical Engineering from the University of Oklahoma. In February 1962, he set world class time-to-climb records in a T-38 jet trainer.)

Is the YF-12A the world's fastest manned aircraft?

It certainly is. On May 1 of this year the YF-12A (formerly known as the A-11) reclaimed the world absolute speed record from the USSR. It was clocked at 2,062 mph over Edwards Air Force Base.

How big is the YF-12A?

The exact dimensions of the YF-12A have not been released yet. But it's approximately 100 feet long, with about a 50-foot wingspan. That's half again as big as our present interceptors!

Is the Air Force training many men as pilots these days?

Yes, very definitely. In spite of all you hear about unmanned vehicles, the human pilot is still very much in the picture. As a matter of fact, the Air Force pilot quota is on the increase.

What other kinds of jobs does the Air Force offer?

Since it's one of the world's foremost technological organizations, the Air Force has plenty of openings for scientists and engineers. There are also many challenging and varied administrative-managerial positions.

What do I have to do to become an Air Force officer?

Air Force ROTC is the best way to get started as an Air Force officer. The new two-year Air Force ROTC program makes this method available to men who have already completed a year or two of their college education. For college graduates, if you did not take advantage of ROTC, you can still get started through Air Force Officer Training School (OTS), a three-month course open to both men and women.

Can I keep up my studies while I'm in the Air Force?

The Air Force encourages its men and women to continue their educations. For instance, you may qualify to study for a graduate degree during off-duty hours, with the Air Force paying a substantial part of the tuition.

What kind of future do I have in the Air Force?

A bright one. As we move further into the Aerospace Age, the Air Force is going to grow even more important. And you can grow with it!

Crowd Sees Rhody Show

A near capacity crowd watched the annual Rhody Night productions at Keaney Gymnasium Saturday evening.

Among the sororities and fraternities performing were Tri-D., D.Z., S.D.T., and A.D. Pi. "The Others" led a host of rock and roll groups which also appeared.

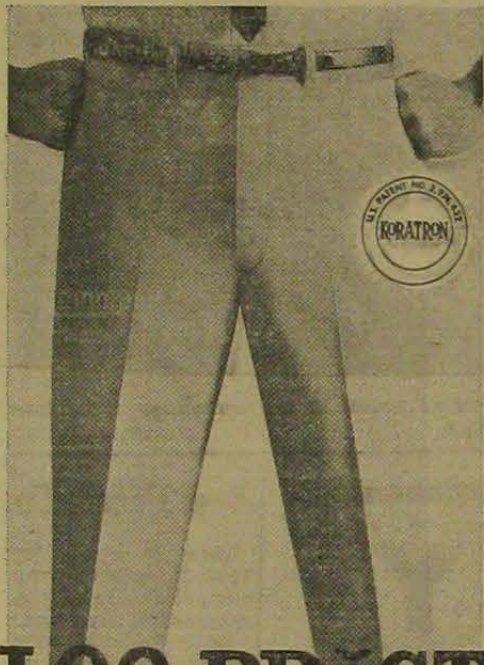

Freshmen were treated to chorus lines and comedy skits, including an exclusive interview with the 6900 year-old perpetual URI student. This was a take-off on a popular commercial.

Pete Bingham, president of Blue Key, and Larry Girard, president of the Schems, introduced their respective groups. They warned the freshmen that for the next few weeks they will enforce campus regulations.

The Master of Ceremonies and coordinator of Rhody Night was Vince Pantas. The entertainment of the evening for the most part was enjoyable.

Rhody Night for the class of '69 marked the end of Freshmen week.

This is Your Football Team - Support Them

with Mike McKenna

The BEACON sports staff would like to start off the year welcoming the 1700 new students to the University. Along with the welcome is an invitation to attend as many sports events this fall as possible.

This Saturday would be an excellent time to begin. The URI-Brown football game at Brown promises to be quite a contest. Maybe a week ago URI's chances wouldn't have been considered too good, but last Wednesday URI's squad surprised everyone including the coaches, with a win over Harvard's second string in a scrimmage at Meade Field.

The small 31 man squad showed their ability on both offense and defense, holding Harvard to only six points while scoring 28. This team is not going to be beaten easily. If they have the proper student support we are sure they will be successful.

The cross country team, defending their Yankee Conference title, looks strong. They will be competing with the top cross country teams in the north east. Coach Russell said that almost every meet will be a close contest. Perhaps the deciding factor in a lot of the upcoming meets will be the team that has the most fans supporting them.

Our soccer team will be in its first year of competition in the Yankee Conference. Their practice sessions have been going on since Labor Day and the team is shaping up nicely.

There is another group that the avid fan will see quite regularly this year. The group goes by the name of Cheerleaders. This year let's really give them something to lead!

Rams Upset Harvard Subs

Last Wednesday was the day that the URI football team proved to all that they were not going to be a pushover. The Rams beat the Harvard Subs in a scrimmage 28-6.

Paul Bricoccoli, the Ram's Quarterback, had a fine day completing seven of 10 throws for 109 yards. Bric's targets were Mike Miello, Jimmy McMahon and Frank Geiselman. All three made some good receptions.

Rhody's ground game wasn't quiet either. John Thompson, Wayne Zdanowicz, Jack Reed and Archie Archambault made good yardage.

Rhody's first score came after a 40 yard drive with Reed taking it into the end zone. The second score was a 34 yard pass play Bric to Geiselman. After halftime Bric took the ball over for the score ending a fine drive. The final score was a result of an interception by John Thompson who returned the ball to the Harvard 15. Bric threw to McMahon for the score.

The game saw the defensive unit looking sharp also. They stopped Harvard's subs many times on the valuable third down play. Their pass coverage was more than adequate forcing the Crimson to stick mainly to the ground.

In the opening game of the year against Brown, Rhody plans a passing game. This should be a wide open game with Brown also having a fine aerial team. We can look to see Bric hitting Miello, McMahon, Geiselman, Thompson and Zdanowicz. Brown's quarterback Bob Hall will be tossing to Richard O'Toole, Charlie Gardiner, Thomas Stranko and Joe Randall. The game is this Saturday at Brown.

New Frosh Coach

There is a new Freshman Football coach this year. Raymond Nedwidek will be in full charge of the Freshman team.

Mr. Nedwidek is a graduate of Slippery Rock College, where he captained the football team. He has been a football coach for the past 15 years at Snowden Township High School in Library, Pa. He also was head soccer coach and assistant basketball coach at Snowden.

He attended North Hills High School in West View, Pa., and Notre Dame before entering Slippery Rock. He also has attended Temple University, University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech for graduate studies.

Maurice Zarchin, director of athletics, said that the freshman team will be a completely separate team from the varsity and will scrimmage and practice without the varsity.
